As part of a market entry strategy a major US waste management organisation proposed to acquire two operational sites and a third non operational site with outline planning permission.

Provectus were asked to conduct pre-acquisition audits of all three sites. This included:

- Full compliance reviews with all licences and permits
- Operational reviews of working practices compared to industry best practice
- Assessment of potential liabilities associated with the historical and current operational methods at or adjacent to the three sites

Upon completion of these tasks and successful acquisition of the sites Provectus were retained to provide:

- Advice on operational practices and improvements
- Liaison with the Environment Agency, planning authorities, and local liaison groups
- Acted as negotiator with the regulatory bodies in close consultation with our client
- Attendance of public meetings and local liaison groups

Provectus completed the project within a very short time scale and identified a number of critical liabilities associated with the sites. This allowed the client to successfully negotiate with the vendor prior to acquisition.

Successful interaction and liaison with stakeholders enabled our client to avoid significant licensing issues, make informed decisions complete the acquisition time, enabling the market entry strategy to proceed as planned.

Significant operational improvements were implemented on Provectus advice leading to significant cost savings.
